From the State Capital.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 27, 1901.

This week has been one of unusual activity among the law makers at Jefferson City. A great number of bills have been introduced in both branches, a few of which will probably become laws. Franchise tax measures seem to be the most popular bills introduced. It is considered certain that the pledges of the Democratic party in regard to an adequate law on this important measure will be fully carried out. Senator Farris this week introduced the bill that should become the one agreed to by the committee. It is Senate Bill 105 and is said by lawyers and those familiar with legislative enactments to cover the matter in a full and complete manner. Although criticized by some who are antagonistic to the best interests of the state, it is the best bill for the tax payers yet introduced.

Governor Dockery takes hold of the reins of government with a firm grasp and discharges the duties of his office with as much vigor and knowledge as if he had been chief executive of the State for twenty years. If there is one thing surer than another it is that Alexander M. Dockery will be the Governor. There are no strings on Dockery. He will be the people's Governor and not the tool of any man or set of men. His administration will be one of the best ever given the State. This seems to be the consensus of opinion among his visitors from all parts of the State.

Notwithstanding the great "howl" the Republicans have made about the flag on the capitol building, the "flag is still there." It waves at half mast this week on account of the death of England's Queen. It was a senseless move on the part of the Republican minority in the House to raise the question of loyalty to the flag. The Democratic party is as loyal to the flag and the Government as the Republicans are. This fact was emphasized yesterday by a speech by General Lee of Virginia. He said we had a united country, free from the hatred and rancor of the civil war. The minority should use its endeavors to assist legislation and not hinder it by useless and senseless resolutions.

JOHN HARRIS.

In pulmonary trouble, the direct action of BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP upon the throat, chest and lungs, immediately arrests the malady, by relieving the distress, cutting the phlegm and freeing the vocal and breathing organs. Price 25 and 50 cents. For sale by G. W. Marshall.

The Danish West Indies.

For more than a year the McKinley administration has been credited with trying to buy the Danish West Indies, and it is said has only been prevented from doing so by the avarice of the Danish government in demanding a price many times greater than they are worth and by a desire on the part of the president to wait till the political status of Porto Rico is settled.

Admitting that the executive can, with the authorization of congress, make the purchase there is a wide latitude of opinion as to the desirability of such a proceeding. Even republican newspapers are divided as to its wisdom.

The Philadelphia Inquirer tells Denmark she should quit dicker and sell the islands to the United States at a reasonable price, because, if she sells at all, she must sell to this country, as no European power will be allowed to buy them from her, to fortify them and make them a menace to our public safety.

On the other hand, the Chicago Times-Herald, whose editor is an intimate friend of the president, opposes the proposition with all the vigor for which it is noted. "If anyone in or out of Washington," says the Times-Herald, "can furnish a plausible reason why the United States should pay 12,000,000 kroner ($3,240,000), or a red cent for the Danish West Indies, now is the time for him to speak up. Instead of offering $3,000,000 for the job lot, our government should gently but firmly inform his excellency the king of Denmark that the United States would not take these three jewels of his crown for a gift. We have some 1,500 islands of our own, many of which we would gladly dispose of at a bargain."

A treaty providing for the transfer of these islands was rejected more than thirty years ago by the senate, because the inhabitants did not unanimously consent.

It remains to be seen whether "the consent of the governed" is to be again asked in the present reported negotiations for the sale of these islands. Doubtless the statesmanship of the new "world power" regards the purchase of another group of islands for several million dollars as a mere trifling incident in the work of benevolent assimilation.

Imperialist newspapers say the islands are needed for the protection of our fleets. After the purchase is made it will be urged that a larger fleet is needed for the protection of the islands.

Such is a sample of the processes by which the Republican party proposes to heap up public expenditures and increase the load of taxation upon the backs of the people.—Kansas City Times.

The Wichita War.

The vigor and fanaticism that have oozed out of the Populism of Kansas seem to have reappeared, in some measure, in the campaign which Mrs. Carrie Nation and other members of the W. C. T. U. have been making against the saloons in Wichita. Mrs. Nation takes literally the motto of the late David R. Locke-Nasby, "Pulverize the Rum Power!" She pulverizes the Rum Power with stones, bricks, hammers and any other accessible weapons of offense and smashing. She fills the saloons of Wichita with surprise and wreckage. Plate glass and bottles, showcases, all the ornaments of the gilded Tophet, tumble into ruin before her. The proprietors are usually too astonished or too polite to have her arrested. She did succeed in getting into a jail that was quarantined for smallpox, and for a few days the sound of her avenging hammer was not heard. Monday she returned to Wichita and resumed hostilities. Accompanied by three other avengers, all with hatchets under their cloaks, she stormed James Burns's saloon, smashing everything smashable. Even the cigar showcases fell. In her transports Mrs. Nation does not distinguish minor from major vices.

Then the hatchet brigade attacked John Herrig's barroom. The plate glass in the front was raining on the street when John, who seems to be an ungallant soul, rushed out, aimed a revolver at Mrs. Nation's head and swore he would shoot her if she didn't stop. She stopped devastating his place, and marched against the hotel barroom where she first engaged in warfare some three weeks ago. There a force of three policemen opposed her. With a poker she lunged at a detective, but she was soon overpowered, and with her fellow soldiers lugged to the town jail. A crowd of two thousand followed the captors and the captured. Wichita is thoroughly alive to the spirit of excitement. A little daughter of one of the prisoners begged in vain for her mother's release.

At the jail there was a more merciful disposition. The Chief of Police arranged an armistice with Mrs. Nation. She was allowed to go on condition that she would not smash any more saloons until noon of the next day. The Wichita Chief of Police is very accommodating.

Emerging in triumph from the prison, Mrs. Nation addressed the crowds in warlike strain. She said that she was going to pulverize the Rum Power at noon sharp the next day. "Men of Wichita," she is said to have cried, "this is the right arm of God, and I am destined to wreck every saloon in the city." Then the saloon smashers climbed into a wagon, and drove through the streets, singing hymns. Before the wrecked saloons they prayed. At night the militant Mrs. Nation was buying a railroad ticket in the station when the Sheriff, described as a little man, informed her that she was his prisoner. She is powerful of build as well as of deed, and she slapped the Sheriff's face and pulled his ears. The station was full of women, who began to scream. It was a lovely scene of melodrama. At length the Sheriff was rescued, and the crusader haled to a cell in the county jail, where she passed the night praying and singing hymns. Two of her companions were also arrested. It was a lively day and night for Wichita, and the prestige of its police and Sheriff must have suffered a good deal.

The people who are in the business of insuring plate glass take a keen interest in Mrs. Nation's war. They will be broken men if she doesn't abate the edge of her wrath and her hatchet. Possibly they will decide to give her war for war, controlment for controlment. But her place in history is secure. She must be reckoned as one more of the most remarkable women of a State where the atmosphere is full of genius germs.—New York Sun.

Will It Pay?

One of the most cruel and callous statements ever made by a public man was that of "Tom" Carter, the Senator from Montana, in reference to the Philippines. "This is a practical age," he said, "we'll keep them if it pays, not otherwise."

The question now is, Mr. Carter, has it paid? The people are spending over $165,000,000 a year on the Philippines, and there is only a profit of $165,000 in the trade, and that goes only to a few persons. How long will the people stand that? According to even Mr. Carter's depraved ethics, the administration should loosen their grip on "our new possessions," for if any one thing is clearer than another it is that they are not paying, and will not pay.—National Watchman.

Vest on Hanna's Robbery Bill.

Senator Vest's onslaught upon the ship subsidy bill was in his best vein. It was equal to the finest efforts of his palmiest days, when he won in forensic battle against political opponents and wore, without corival, the title of "Little Giant." It demonstrates that Vest is himself again, despite the long siege that ill health and hard work in the public service have been laying to his once vigorous constitution.

By his invincible logic, his scathing power of analysis, his matchless sarcasm, he demolished the flimsy arguments advanced by Hanna, Frye and other champions of this scheme for looting the treasury to pay the Standard Oil company and other ship-owning corporations double-compound interest on the sums they contributed to the Republican campaign fund.

With one stroke he laid bare the iniquity, the shamelessness, the indefensibility in principle of this treasury-looting scheme. He showed how the American line, owned principally by John D. Rockefeller, will get $42,000,000 of the $180,000,000 that is proposed to be extorted from the tax payers by this piece of larcenous legislation; how the Pacific Mail Steamship company will get $550,000 a year for twenty-five years. With biting sarcasm and cutting wit he exposed the mendacity of the Republican senators who are pretending that this measure is for the building up of our merchant marine.

"The next poor, emaciated, starving corporation," he said, "that will receive a subsidy under this bill is the Standard Oil company. It is trembling with emaciation and hungry for the necessities of life, its shares of stock being worth only $650 each." He revealed the emptiness of the pretense that this bill will give the country auxiliary cruisers in time of war and pointed out that its corporation beneficiaries are preparing to organize a shipping trust as soon as the measure shall become a law, by which they will be able to monopolize the carrying trade on the oceans and the Great Lakes.

No such bill as the Hanna-Payne bill could be tolerated if it were not that the dominant party in our government is absolutely owned and controlled by the men who constitute the trusts. It presents the most glaring denial that every man in this country is equal before the law that has been exhibited since the "High Priest of Protection" was elected to the first office in the land.

Bounties to ships are no more justifiable than bounties to farmers and live stock raisers to help them along in periods of drought. Miners, street builders, railroad owners—in fact any and every class of industry—have as much right to be subsidized to induce them to carry on their respective businesses as have the men who build or own ships.

Nevertheless, the Republicans will pass this outrageous and scandalous piece of legislation, which is a barefaced and criminal robbery of the American people for the enrichment of cormorant trusts.—Kansas City Times.

The Great Modern Newspaper.

When all that portion of the United States west of the Missouri and Kaw rivers was a trackless wilderness, nearly half a century ago, the first issue of one of the world's greatest newspapers appeared. St. Louis, which was then a mere overgrown town on the western frontier of civilization, has developed into a great commercial metropolis, and that great modern newspaper, the ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, has kept pace with the progress of its city and section. It has been, from its first issue to the present time, the children's tutor, the youth's counselor, the woman's companion, the farmer's instructor and friend. Its circulation extends to every state and territory of the Union, to Canada and Mexico, and to every part of the world where there are readers of the English language. It ought to be in your home during the coming year. See advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

Threatened With Mutual Admiration.

Miss Ethel Morse threw the New York Woman's Press Club into a panic the other day by declaring the woman's movement was threatened with mutual admiration.

"I want to warn you of a great danger," said Miss Morse, "Woman has been gazing, Narcissus like, into the mirror of her own excellence, and has been captivated by the picture of her own greatness. She has gone on founding clubs, establishing model tenements, sketching working plans for raising model children, but, fatal weakness, she hasn't ceased to be astonished at herself."

Well, is it surprising? Men are astonished at women every day. Why shouldn't women be astonished at each other? Men admire women. Why shouldn't women admire each other?

The fact is women have only just waked up to the fact that they are intensely interesting. That they should be overcome with special wonder is not strange. The world's 6000 years old and men have not yet got over Adam's surprise at his wife's doings. Women are just finding out the interesting facts in life.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
